Rules and Regulations for IRIS usage

All IRIS subscribers must agree to the following terms and conditions. If you have specific questions about any of the following rules and regulations please email support@croom.net. Any subscriber found in violation of the following may be permanently and immediately removed from the IRIS system and prevented from accessing the Internet and other network resources.

- 1 Subscribers may not host a server on the network under any conditions. A server is defined as any computer allowing unsolicited inbound connection attempt, either from the local network or Internet. This includes Windows and Macintosh file sharing, any online gaming server, web server, FTP server, or other file server. File and printer sharing are restricted but allowed between jacks in any given apartment. There are no restrictions on sharing between multiple devices on a single jack provided subscriber uses compatible hub or switch.
- 2 IRIS subscribers may connect wireless networking equipment to any jack in their apartment but must secure the access point with one or more authentication or encryption method(s). Acceptable methods include, but are not limited to, WEP, WPA, and Mac Address Restrictions. Disabling SSID broadcasts (otherwise known as hiding the network name) is not an acceptable method of securing access. Wireless availability or reliability is not guaranteed and no support is provided. Periodic scans are conducted to detect unrestricted wireless access points. If detected they will be tracked to the subscribers apartment and the subscriber's access may be suspended until the access point has been secured. Repeat violations will result in termination of the subscribers account without refund.
- 3 Hacking or otherwise tampering with network equipment or resources is strictly prohibited and will result in the immediate termination of subscriber's access without refund or recourse. This includes any attempt to gain access to network devices or overload shared network resources.
- 4 Subscribers are required to keep active virus protection installed and updated on any device connected to IRIS, provided the device has a Windows operating system. Firewall software, while not required, is highly recommended. In the event that a subscriber's computer becomes compromised by a virus or is exploited, the service to that computer will be temporarily discontinued. It is the responsibility of the subscriber to take corrective action and to notify Computer Room when the problem has been resolved. Subscriber may not receive notification that service has been suspended.
- 5 If at any time a complaint is received regarding the activity of a subscriber on the internet, and such activity is found to be illegal or in violation of this agreement, or the terms of service established by Time Warner Business Class, the subscribers access will be suspended or terminated depending on the severity of the violation.
